Dear [REDACTED]

I have just been reviewing a number of Exit Interviews which were conducted here with some of our departing alumni, and was especially interested in yours. You have expressed a very sympathetic attitude towards our organization and its activities, and I am sincerely appreciative.

You expressed an opinion, however, that you felt that your Army career was seriously damaged because of the vigor of the efficiency reports rendered during your service with us. This causes me no little concern.

I have been informed that [REDACTED] has disavowed this matter with you and that corrective action has been taken. The reports to which you objected have been withdrawn from your official file at our request and have been replaced by two reports for the period by your immediate superior. I have seen a copy of the latter, and while the description of the duties you performed is necessarily brief because of the sensitive nature of the project on which you were engaged, the description of you and comments by the rating officer are detailed and most complimentary. These and the ratings in Sections II, III, IV and V on the back of the form all indicate outstanding qualifications and performance of duty.

I would greatly appreciate a few lines from you telling us if you still feel that service here has been a handicap to you professionally, and also any steps you think might be taken by us to insure that service with the Agency can be made of greater value to the average officer's military career. I would welcome your suggestions, which I am confident would prove most helpful to us.
